What??

There's this really cool dude, ok? He's standing around being all chill, like cool dudes are known to do sometimes.

A cool dude like this probably has a real cool name. But he probably wouldn't just tell you what it was if you asked. He'd be way too busy for that. Busy being totally sweet.

But you could always try to guess his name.

And if you were right, he might nod ever so slightly. That's a cool dude's way of letting you know there might just be hope for you yet.

Rose: Attach a W to face as a fake moustache.

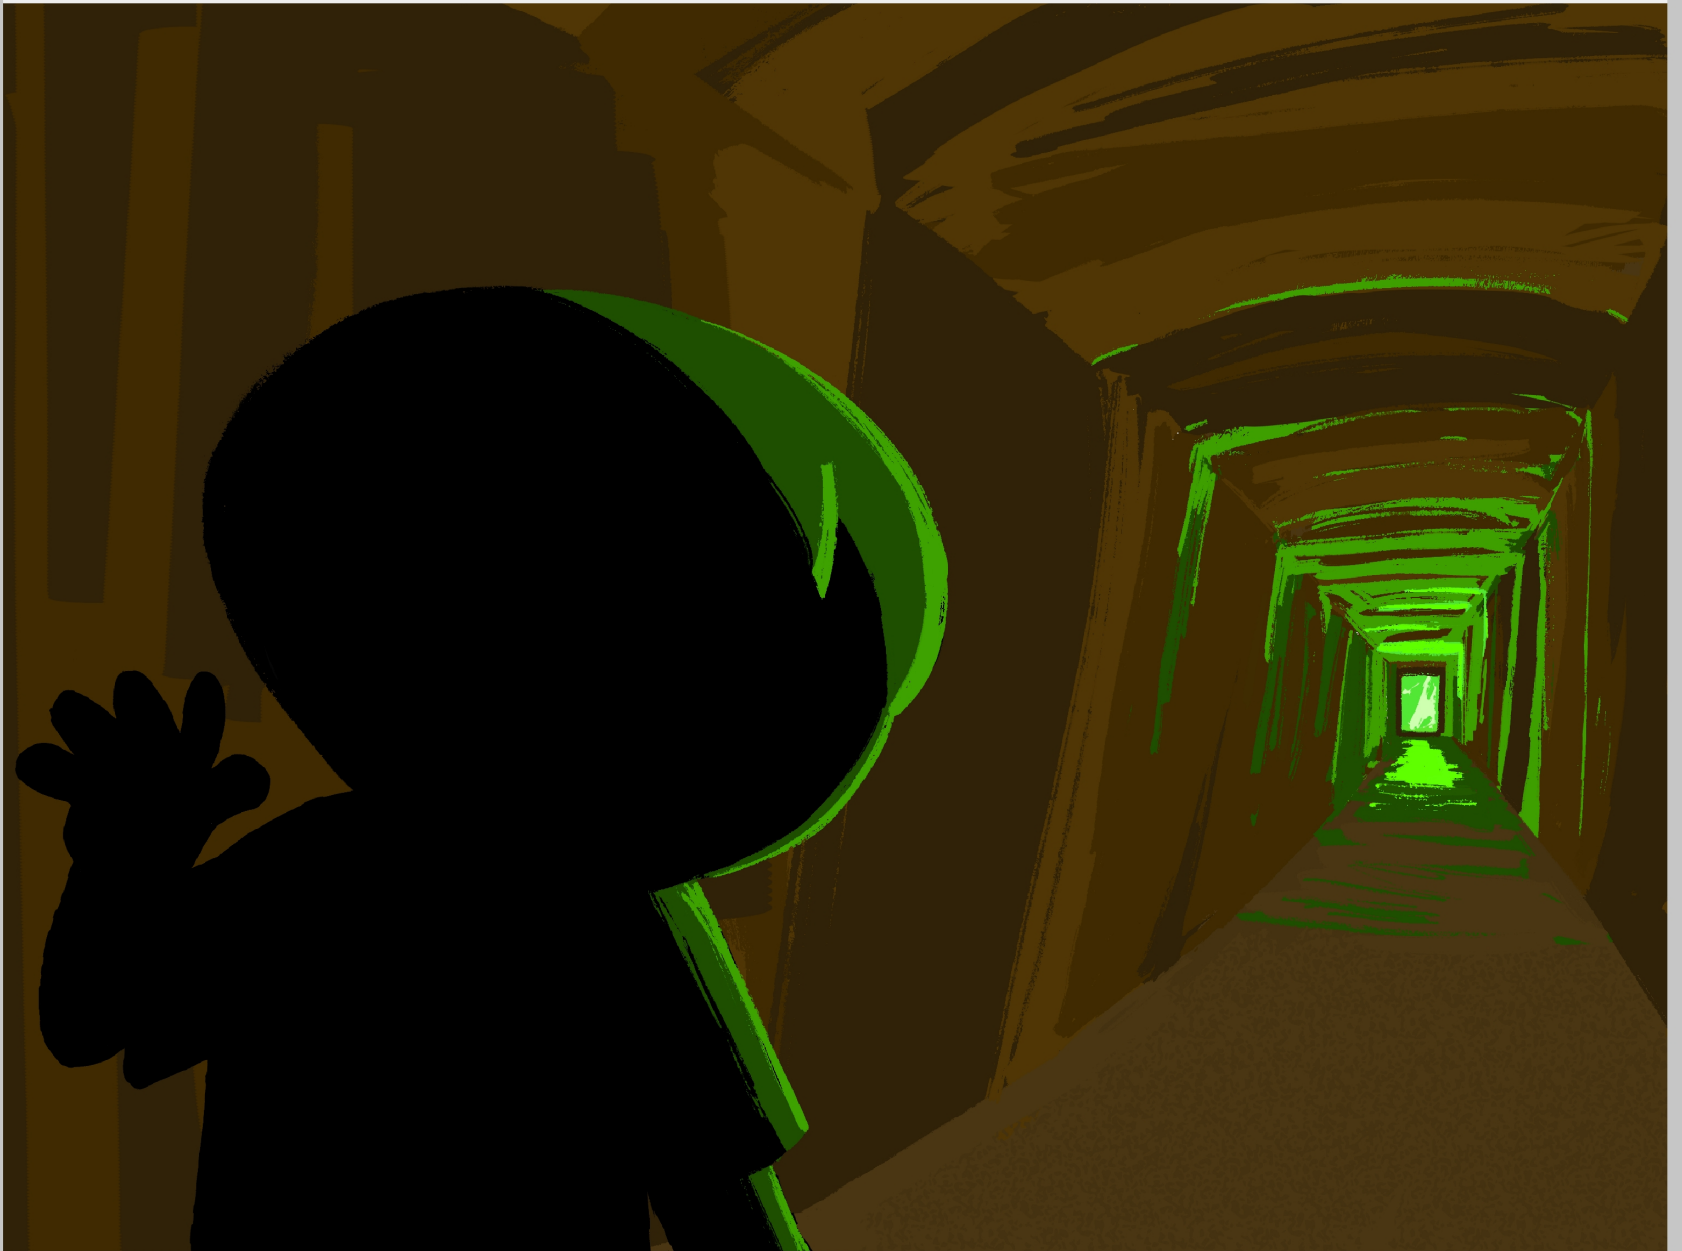

This is incredibly silly, and you're not sure how it fits into your campaign against your mother, OR getting your computer back online to escape your doom!

But it's hard to resist getting a little silly sometimes. Especially when you are absolutely positive no one is watching.

EB: oh, hey!

EB: you're back.

TT: For now. I'll have to leave again shortly.

TT: It looks like there's another large meteor headed for...

TT: My present location.

EB: oh, so you mean dave connected with you?

> John: Climb that echeladder.

lobsterlover - 880

Jade: Leap dramatically across the divide.

WHOOPS.

You guess an encounter with him is almost certain now.

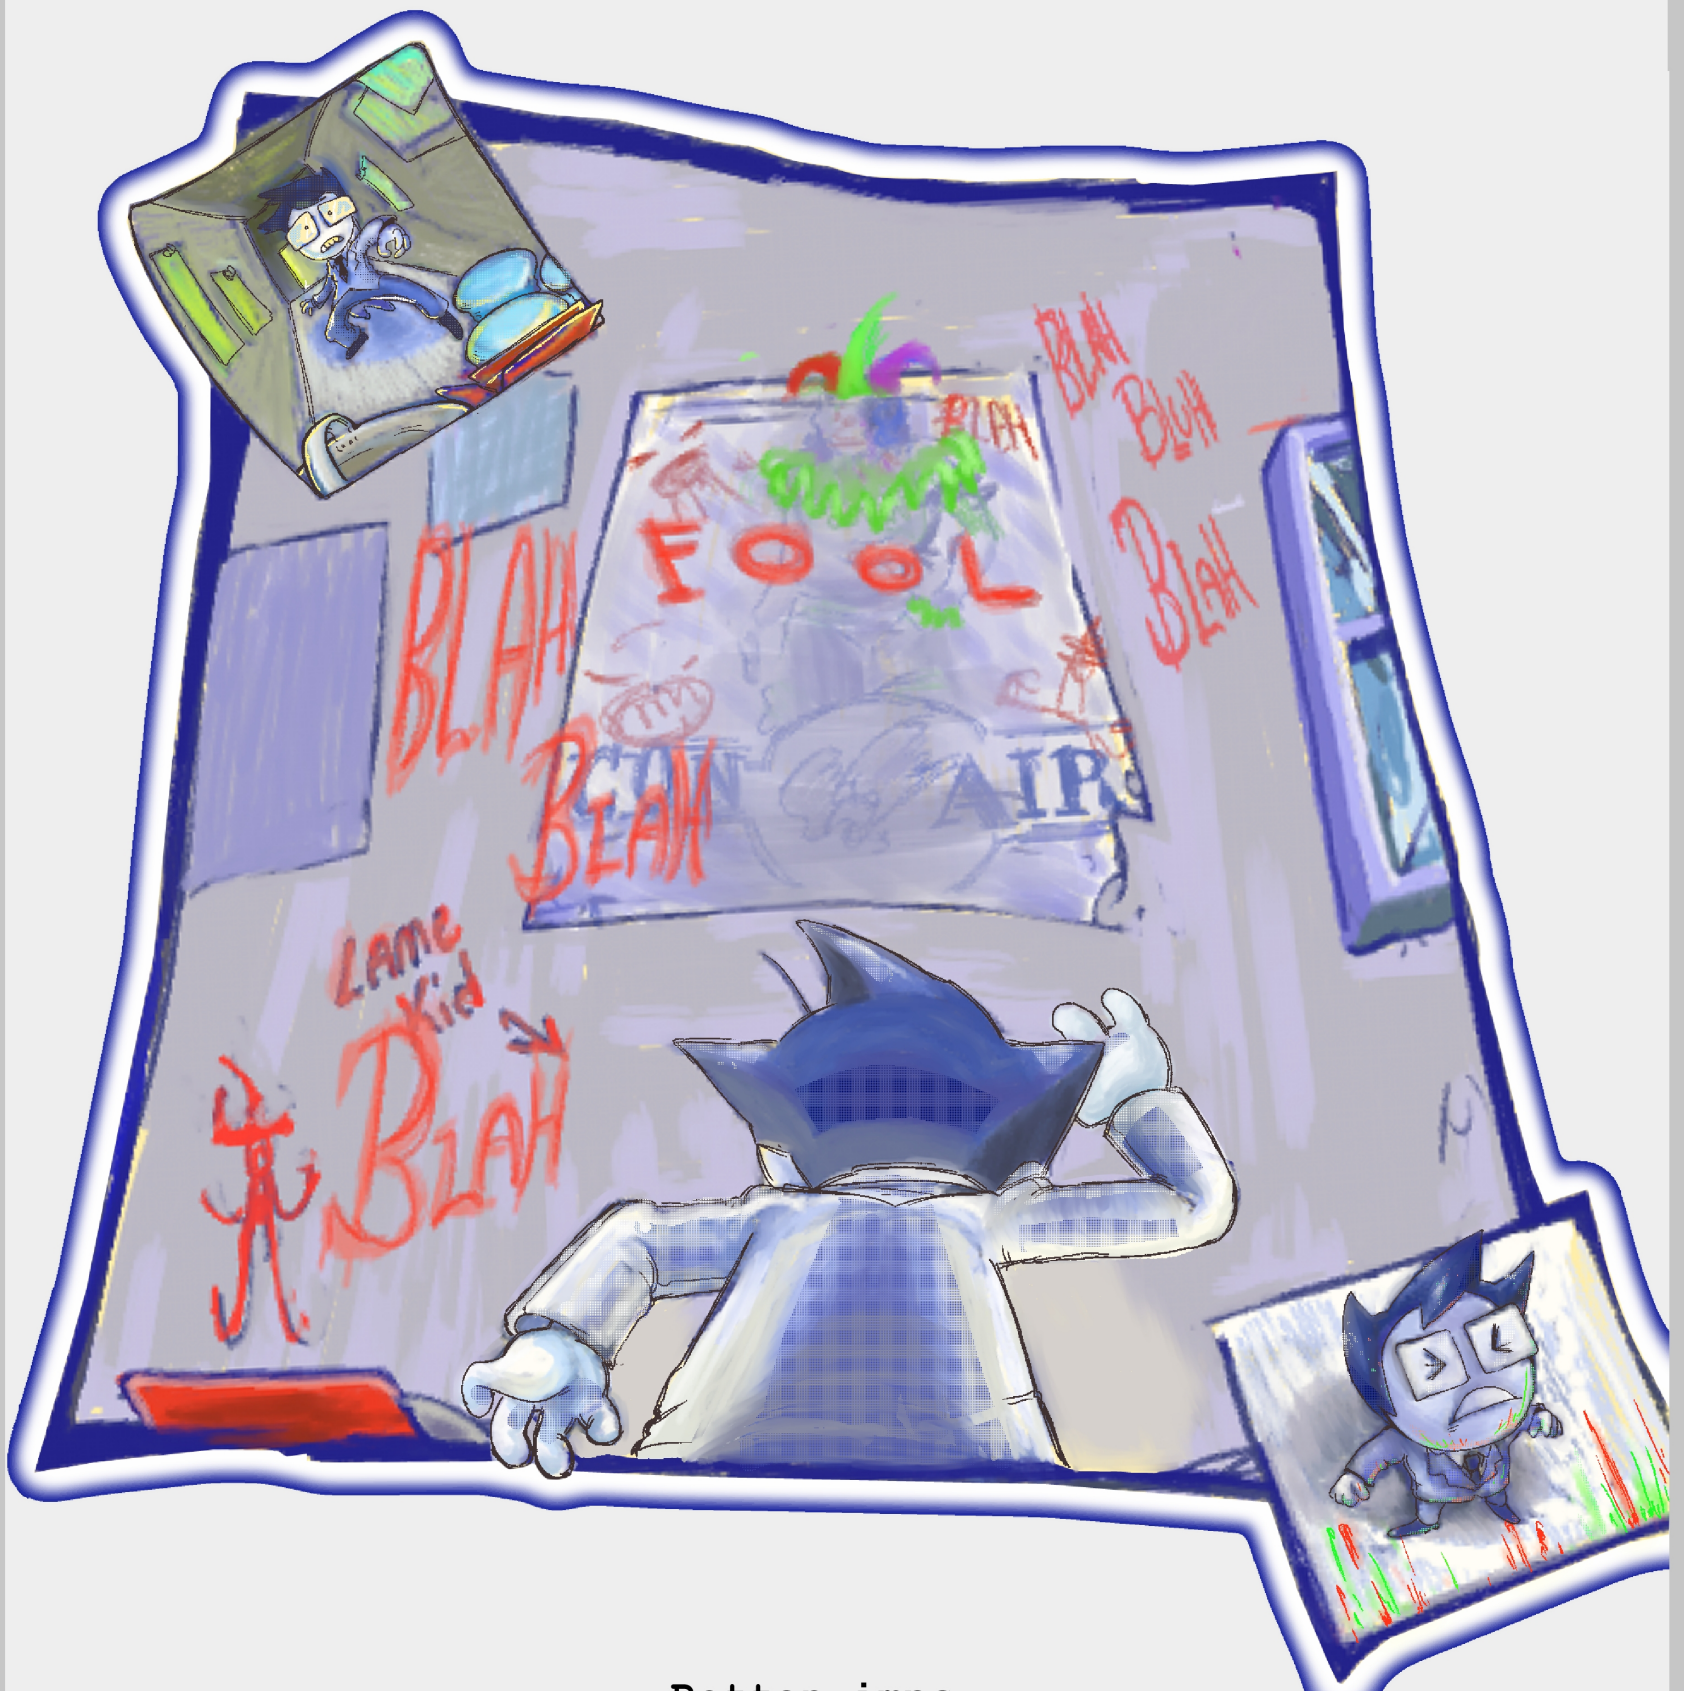

But most likely not for a while.
Time to see what someone else is up to.

Oh, let's say... Dave.

You enter something predictably derogatory and this guy gets fed up by your shenanigans in record time.

This guy has a lot of troll pals and their adventures are going to be quite extensive and convoluted, to an even greater degree than one perhaps may be accustomed. The Sufferer required a less conventional upbringing to reach maturity. As a young grub, he landed in the brooding caverns where he would be expected to face his trials. But due to his mutation, surely no lusus would select him. No creature sympathetic to his scent had been bred yet. His odds for survival would have been remote, if not for a chance encounter.

The prisoner appears to be doing well. You ask if you can get him anything. Coffee? A newspaper? Additional smoking apparatus? He indicates that since he lost his wallet, he's been running low on pipe tobacco.

You say you'll see to it at once.
